

World Book Day is on Thursday 4th March. We are not all in school at the moment so we will not be able to celebrate as we would normally by all dressing up as our favourite book characters. BUT we can't just let the day pass by so we have come up with a plan!

World Book Day is all about sharing our favourite books and lots of us enjoy reading at bed time. So we would like you to wear your pyjamas and share your favourite bed time story with whoever you are with; it could be a parent, grandparent, your teddy bear, or friends in class if you are in school.

Please send photos of you reading.

There are lots of great audio books to listen to on the World Book Day web-site. There are books for all age groups here.

Book tokens will be given to children when they return to school.
